Here and There

I go towards the World, a raucous trip

to an even more raucous destination where they fire questions at me.

Acquit myself well enough to ask permission to return, which is never granted

but always implicit.